The UK PLAB Specialty Review and Self Assessment (SRSA) is an essential step for international medical graduates (IMGs) who wish to practice medicine in the United Kingdom. The SRSA is a two-part exam that assesses your knowledge and skills in a chosen medical specialty. Passing the SRSA is a requirement for obtaining GMC registration, which is necessary to work as a doctor in the UK.

Eligibility Criteria

To be eligible to sit the UK PLAB SRSA, you must:

- Be an IMG who has graduated from a medical school that is recognized by the GMC
- Have completed at least one year of postgraduate medical training
- Have passed the PLAB Part 1 exam

- Be registered with the GMC as an International Medical Graduate

Exam Format

The UK PLAB SRSA is a two-part exam. Part 1 is a written exam that consists of 100 multiple-choice questions. Part 2 is a clinical exam that consists of 18 stations, each of which assesses a different clinical skill.

The written exam is divided into four sections:

- Section A: Medical Knowledge (50 questions)
- Section B: Surgical Knowledge (25 questions)
- Section C: Obstetrics and Gynaecology Knowledge (15 questions)
- Section D: Paediatrics Knowledge (10 questions)

The clinical exam is divided into three parts:

- Part A: History Taking and Communication (6 stations)
- Part B: Clinical Examination (6 stations)
- Part C: Management and Interpretation (6 stations)

Study Tips

Preparing for the UK PLAB SRSA can be a daunting task, but with the right study plan and resources, you can increase your chances of success. Here are some tips to help you prepare:

- Start studying early. The SRSA is a challenging exam, so it is important to give yourself plenty of time to prepare.

- Use a variety of study resources. There are many different resources available to help you prepare for the SRSA, including textbooks, online courses, and practice exams.
- Focus on your weak areas. Use your practice exams to identify your weak areas and focus on improving your knowledge and skills in those areas.
- Take practice exams. The best way to prepare for the SRSA is to take practice exams. This will help you get used to the format of the exam and identify areas where you need more practice.
- Get enough sleep. It is important to get enough sleep before the exam so that you can perform at your best.
- Stay positive. Preparing for the SRSA can be stressful, but it is important to stay positive and believe in yourself.

The UK PLAB Specialty Review and Self Assessment is an essential step for IMGs who wish to practice medicine in the United Kingdom. By following the tips in this guide, you can increase your chances of success and achieve your goal of becoming a UK-registered doctor.

We wish you all the best in your preparation for the UK PLAB SRSA.
